

CHANDLER WALKER

ABOUT CHANDLER

Chandler is a leader in the marketing, business and entrepreneurship landscape and charges forward with strategies well before they are adopted by the masses. Chandler builds brands and understands a customer-centric relationship model in today's business landscape. He works with high-level brands and over 200 unique companies to identify and define the ideal pipeline for their sales and marketing and to truly understand the customer, their needs and wants. Chandler built StoneAgeFuel his first fitness business to be highly profitable and went on to be a key player in building the brand of the MadLab Business Group. In addition to that Chandler owns a large scale relationship focused media agency devoted to helping other businesses define and identify their brand story and to tell that story in a way to connects with the consumer and to ensure that the right team is trained and in place to do the job.
